

Madrid, 20th January 2015

Mediaset España will broadcast Spains friendly football matches and the finals of the Copa del Rey and the Supercopa

- The agreement between the Royal Spanish Football Federation and Mediaset España will continue for the next three years and also includes the friendly matches of the U-21 National Team and Absolute Women's Team
- Mediaset España will offer free to air viewers these top games televised, following the broadcasts of major football events like the World Cup in Brazil and South Africa, the UEFA Europa League or La Liga

Mediaset España will over the next three years, exclusively offer the friendly matches played by the Absolute Football Team (Male and Female) and the U-21 and the finals of the Copa del Rey and Supercopa.

With the acquisition of these rights, the company renews its commitment to general interest sporting events while allowing viewers to enjoy these outstanding football appointments on free to air TV with the guarantee given by the experience of the Sports team of professionals in journalism, production, development and promotion. Their experience in the broadcasting of major sports events is accredited in major sporting events like the World Cups of Brazil 2014 and South Africa 2010, the European Football Championship 2012 in Poland and Ukraine, the World Championship MotoGP, the Eurobasket in Slovenia, the basketball World Cup 2014, the UEFA Europa League, la Liga, or the Roland Garros tennis tournament, among others.